

Changes in Cost Estimating

John Cargill will detail the changes in cost estimating in an austere financial environment and what has caused those changes. He will also outline how the changes will positively impact the DoD in relation to program management and developing cost estimates.